DESCRIPTION

Patroclo is more than just a lamp: it is a work of art designed by Gae Aulenti, a masterful encounter between glass and metal, transparency and the strength of matter. Its hand-blown glass body takes shape within an irregular rhomboid metal armor, crafted by welding heat-resistant steel wires. Like a precious cage, this structure captures light and transforms it, creating a fascinating interplay of reflections and shadows.
Each piece is unique, shaped by the skilled hands of glass artisans, striking a perfect balance between tradition and innovation. Patroclo illuminates spaces with its sculptural presence, casting an intense and evocative atmosphere, where light is refracted and scattered through the metal mesh, generating an ever-changing visual effect.
